MGPL WELCOMES NEW DIRECTOR

by Mark Albers - President, MGPL Board of Trustees

"The richest person in the world - in fact all the riches in the world - couldn't provide you with anything like the endless, incredible loot available at your local library." - Malcolm Forbes

I wanted to begin this article with a quote from one of America's best known and wealthiest businessmen of the last century because his words recognize that real riches mostly rest within the bounds of information and education that America's libraries provide.

On behalf of the Board of Library Trustees, I am very pleased to announce that our library's newest treasure — who will be a great addition and valuable asset to the people of Morton Grove and all patrons of our library — is Ms. Pamela Leffler. On July 2, 2012, she officially begins her term as the sixth full-time Director of the Morton Grove Public Library since the first person was appointed to the post back in 1955.

After an extensive search and review process, the MGPL Board of Trustees (with input from our Co-Directors, who have served the library patrons very well over the last year), is very pleased to announce that Ms. Leffler accepted the position of Director of the Morton Grove Public Library. She has over 20 years of public library experience and comes to us from the Carol Stream Public Library where she has held a variety of positions (most recently serving as Assistant Director).

Ms. Leffler believes strongly in the role that the library plays as a cultural, educational and entertainment center for the community, and said upon her appointment, "I'm looking forward to getting to know the residents of Morton Grove and working with the staff of the Library to continue and build upon the excellent service and programs that we provide to the public. I can't wait! I hope people will stop in and introduce themselves the next time they're in the Library." Pam is an active professional who is married with two sons in college. In her spare time she enjoys traveling, running (having completed her first half-marathon last September), watching football and of course, reading!

"I'm looking forward to getting to know the residents of Morton Grove and working with the staff of the Library to continue and build upon the excellent service and programs that we provide to the public."

Besides Pam taking up her post, many exciting changes are coming to MGPL. I know these will be appreciated by the community at large as we work hard in order to provide the best quality service while being fiscally responsible with the taxpayers' money (which is what keeps our doors open for the public good). Some of the things coming down the road are an updated website, a fresh look to the Books and Beyond newsletter, Read Fest – a celebration of reading which debuted on June 2 of this year – and our third annual Tech Fest scheduled for this upcoming fall. Look for more new programs and old favorites that will meet the needs of our multicultural and diverse community in the future. Be sure to visit our website at www.webrary.org to see the calendar of events or find what you're looking for online. Or if you prefer, simply call 847-965-4220 and speak with any of our dedicated and experienced staff who are always happy to help or to answer your questions.

"I can't wait! I hope people will stop in and introduce themselves the next time they're in the Library."

Since I opened with a quote, let me close with one from another famous person who understood dreams and desires of those living in America and the importance of the library to the community. By his achieving success in business, he was able to not only realize the importance of giving back to society, but the ability to do so as well…

"There is not such a cradle of democracy upon the earth as the Free Public Library, this republic of letters, where neither rank, office, nor wealth receives the slightest consideration." - Andrew Carnegie

B&B: NEW LOOK. NEW FEATURES.

We are very excited to present the first issue of our redesigned Books & Beyond newsletter with a new masthead; clear, contemporary layout; new columns; and new features. It will now be easy to see if a program requires registration: just look for the purple REG after the program. And the online edition of Books & Beyond will make it even easier for you to register or learn more about an event or a topic – live links will take you directly to the event in the library calendar, as well as to descriptions of events, movies or topics featured in articles. The new table of contents will make it easier to see what is featured on which page in the print edition, and will provide direct links to a specific section in the online edition. We enjoyed working on the new design of the newsletter; we hope you will enjoy its new look and new features too!

Read Books & Beyond online or subscribe to receive it in your e-mail at BooksandBeyond.webrary.org.

MR. M EXPLAINS...

Mr. M (as in "M"orton Grove) is the Library's online avatar, or persona, and usually hangs out on the Library's Twitter and Tumblr pages, as well as the online catalog. He's now made the jump to the print world, with a regular column in Books & Beyond where he will provide concise descriptions of materials and services provided by the Library.

AtoZ TRAVEL

AtoZ Travel is a new electronic resource that provides accurate travel information for over 200 cities around the world - a perfect one-stop travel-planning site for vacations or short getaways. AtoZ Travel covers such topics as: climate, hotels, currency, shopping, dining, neighborhood guides, and more. Time zone conversion, clothing sizes and electricity guides for cities worldwide provided by AtoZ Travel can be useful even if you are not traveling this summer. Use AtoZ Maps and AtoZ USA for more travel and geographical information by logging in on any of these resources at databases.webrary.org with your MGPL card or explore them on a computer at the Library.

SCHOOL SUMMER READING LISTS

Schools often create summer reading lists for students. The Library has at least one copy of every available book listed on local schools' reading lists. Many books are also available for free through the Library's downloadable service, MyMediaMall. You can access the K-6 and 7-12 reading lists online at catalog.webrary.org and find them in print in the Teen and Youth Services areas of the Library.
